CHARACTER BREAKDOWN:

CHARACTERS:

Phil - A door to door salesman

Mary - An unsuspecting customer

Mary and Phil enter.

PHIL: Madam!

MARY: Good morning, Phil.

PHIL: What if I was to tell you I could see the future?

MARY: I dunno. Is that something you're likely to say?

PHIL: What if I were to tell you the end was in sight?

MARY: The end of your sales pitch?

PHIL: No. Well, yes, but that's not the only thing.

MARY: Of course not.

PHIL: What if I were to tell you there's a book in the Bible that reveals the end?

MARY: What end?

SKIT

PHIL: THE end! The big hoo wah! The grand finale! The finish! The final battle!

MARY: The finish of what?

PHIL: The finish of the story! At least, as far as this world and this creation are concerned.

MARY: Are we talking about the end of the world?

PHIL: We are!

MARY: Ugh. My husband loves those kinds of movies.

PHIL: Madam, this is no feat of fiction splayed upon a big screen by Hollywood. No! This is the big one, the real climax as written by the master of all creation Himself!

MARY: Oh my!

PHIL: It's all in the final book. Number 27 in your New Testament, number 66 in the Bible itself.
I'm talking about... Revelation!

MARY: What a great name.

PHIL: It is a great name, isn't it? It gets your attention, but it's less alarming than KABOOM!

MARY: I like that one too.

PHIL: Written by the apostle John, the only disciple who followed Jesus to the cross, Revelation is a prophecy about the end of times. It's a mysterious book filled with strange and sometimes alarming visions. But it's also a hopeful book. You know why?

MARY: There's a happy ending?

PHIL: Not just a happy ending but a joyful new beginning for all who call Jesus Lord!

SKIT

MARY: How about that?

PHIL: Madam, this is the end of the Bible, but it's hardly the end of the story. Why you and I are part of the on-going story, and one day, we will stand before the Lord and worship Him in a new Heaven after the events of this final book take place.

MARY: Say it again. I know you want to say it again.

PHIL: Revelation!

MARY: Finally, we reach the end!
